Song.

If all my love were scattered into gems—
The worldly stars we give our lives to gain—
Then in the night,
Fancy, that now can bring me only pain,
Would radiant crowns contrive, and crescents bright,
And burning diadems.

Then on thy finger the soft amethyst Would tremble, love, and in thy hair I'd twine Warm rubles red; hile to the sweet throat I have never

Pure pearls, like clustering kisses, would

And dream they made it mine,

June Wedding Bells.

June, since the old Reman days, has been considered the most propitious for consummating marriage ties. Even down to the Middle Ages this belief held good. That it has been transmitted to the present is evident from the favor with which the month is still regarded.

All nature conspires to do honor to the June bride. The sun smiles for her, the roses bloom that their perfume may be her altar incense, and the beauty of the senson seems to be in full sympathy with the joyousness attendant upon the crowning act of human happiness.

In Richmond, June the first, will echo ing act of human happiness.

In Richmond, June the first, will ceho with the music of wedding hells, for at $1:00 o'clock this afterneon Miss Fanny Ross, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Ross, will be married to Mr. William H. Palmer, Jr., the ceremony taking place in the Ross home, No. 101 East Franklin Street

SOMETIME.

By MAY RILEY SMITH.

Mrs. Mary Louise Riley Smith was born in the State of New York in 1812. After r marriage to Albert Smith she removed to New York city, where she still re-les, "Sometime" is one of her best known poems.

S OMETIME, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And sun and stars for evermore have set The things which our weak judgment here has spurned, The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet, Will flash before us, out of life's dark night, A ANT As stars shine most in deeper tints of blue; q 0 9 And we shall see how all God's plans were right, And how what seemed reproof was love most true.

And we shall see how, while we frown and sigh God's plans go on as best for you and me; How, when we called, he heeded not our cry, Because his wisdom to the end could see. And e'en as prudent parents disallow Too much of sweet to craving babyhood.

So God, perhaps, is keeping from us now Life's sweetest things, because it seemeth good.

And if, somtimes, commingled with life's wine, We find the wormwood, and rebel and shrink, Be sure a wiser hand than yours or mine Pours out this potion for our lips to drink. And if some friend we love is lying low. Where human kisses cannot reach his face, O, do not blame the loving Father so, But wear your sorrow with obedient grace!

And you will shortly know that lengthened breath Is not the sweetest gift God sends his friends, And that, sometimes, the sable pall of death Conceals the fairest boon his love can send. If we could push ajar the gates of life, And stand within, and all God's workings see, We could interpret all this doubt and strife, And for each mystery could find a key!

But not to-day. Then be content, poor heart! God's plans, like lilies, pure and white unfold; We must not tear the close shut leaves apart, Time will reveal the chalices of gold. And if, through patient toil, we reach the land Where tired feet, with sandals loosed, may rest,

When we shall clearly know and understand, I think that we will say, "God knew the best!"

LADIES' AND MISSES' SUSPENDER GIRDLE.

No. $179.—The suspender idea seems to have taken as permanent a hold upon woman's fancy as it has upon the fashion for misses and children.
It indoubtedly gives a sense of completeness to the aspect of a costume, especially when the attire is composed of a separate waist and skirt. The girdle and suspenders in this case may be of the material of the skirt or of the bodice; this is a matter for both garments unless they are alike.

Girdles of this type are usually made of taffets, peau de sole, linen or of the same fabric as the dress.

The pattern is cut in sizes 22, 26 and 30 inches waist measure, and requires one yard of 22-inch material with one yard of material for lining.

This pattern can be gotten at The Cohen Company for 10c,-Adv.
